

The Sustainability Studies and Solutions (SS&S) program is designed to help nonresidential customers meet sustainability goals at no cost. This innovative program provides a comprehensive, facility-wide study to identify and quantify carbon reduction opportunities and a decarbonization roadmap to help customers achieve long term sustainability goals.

What's in it for you?

- Sustainability studies: Our no-cost assessments help identify cost saving opportunities that could help reduce energy and water usage.
- Customized roadmaps: SS&S offers tailored strategies to help prioritize and implement projects aligned with your specific sustainability goals.
- Funding & saving guidance: Get expert guidance on securing utility, state, and federal funding for sustainability projects. An SS&S program representative will provide you with information concerning SoCalGas' rebates and incentives as well as assist in drafting grant applications for additional sustainability-focused funding opportunities.
- Expert coaching and support: Collaborate with technical and organizational coaches who provide step-by-step guidance, which could lead to long-term improvements tailored to your facility's specific needs.

Program benefits

Participating in the SS&S program could help position your business as a leader in sustainability. Beyond cost savings, it may help you stay competitive in an era where customers prioritize environmentally responsible partners.

Eligibility requirements

Must be a SoCalGas nonresidential customer with an active SoCalGas account in good standing.

How to get started
